

GVH RUNNER POLL: What is the race you hope to one day check off your list?

Miwok 100K, beautiful place, legendary race
-Scott Martin

The Great Wall marathon
- Mike Lemaire

San Diego 100
-Bryan Pro

Any 100K race. I attempted Goldrush 100K in 2013 and failed to complete it. It is the only distance I have DNFed in. I need to redeem myself. Maybe getting a 100K under my belt will inspired me enough to one day try to go for 100 miles.
-Cristina R.

Western States
-Cory Glaeser

Canyon de Chelly 55k. The canyon is rich in Native American history, and has been a destination for art photographers for a century. I'd like to see it before there's a Trump Hotel in the middle of it.
- Jeff Steele

New York City Marathon, so that my sister, who lives in NYC, can cheer me on.
-Matthew Wise

Beijing Marathon. Just want to run a Marathon in China, especially to pass the Tiananmen square
-Eric Fang

Boston Marathon, I have not qualified yet, I hear it is fun.
-Blair Howard

Boston, I have heard so much about it
- Kerry Sortor

Boston Marathon - no profound reason; I like the jacket :)
-Ben Sacks

Boston Marathon. Because the jacket is awesome:)
-Annie Ciernia

Boston Marathon. I have qualified before and not gone because I was in college.
-Steve Barton

The London Marathon, as part of the world majors.
-Angie Hart

London Marathon
-Matt Young

Gorges 50 km - I'm so drawn by the natural beauty of this point-to-point course! (also, for visual: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vDQsfYSJsnI>)
-Tara Steinmetz

Catalina marathon from two harbors to avalon. I hiked across the island over three days with my father and 3 brothers when I was 10 years old. I would love to go back and run across the island, tracing the path we once took.
- Ed Ballerini

Ultra Fiord, Patagonia, Chile; look at the pictures and you'll know why:
[http://www.ultrafiord.com/about/
Boston](http://www.ultrafiord.com/about/Boston), because I did it once and it was one of the best experiences I've ever had.

Dipsea
